

EXPECTATIONS FOR A SUCCESSFUL TOUR

- 1) Technical issues
- 2) Processes of Negotiation (Treaty)
- 3) How to create and bring River Commissions together
- 4) Decentralization
- 5) How do we do public participation and civil society
- 6) How do we share data across countries and people, organizations
- 7) How to harmonize differing interests among countries
- 8) Distribution of costs and benefits – IWRM
- 9) Tools of the planning process – planning formulation

- 10) National countries coming together – interests
- 11) More about technical tools
- 12) How to leverage learnings/experience from USA/Canada to SE Asian context
- 13) How can institutional arrangements play neutral role in negotiations
- 14) How to harmonize interests
- 15) How can MRC be neutral
- 16) Legal and environment considerations
- 17) How to negotiate tools
- 18) Public participation models
- 19) Learn from lessons on Columbia River Basin

- 20) Operation and maintenance of Columbia River system
- 21) Environmental and ?? impacts
- 22) IWRM and National development and planning
- 23) Transboundary relations
- 24) Integrate stakeholders into MRC planning agenda
- 25) History of how to put things into the mainstem
- 26) Harmonize investments and users and developers
- 27) Costs and benefits and mitigating measures of hydropower development
- 28) Who and how are mitigations measures paid
- 29) How to move lessons into plans

30) What kind of issues would have benefited from the existence of a river basin organization

31) What time of its existence would a river basin organization have been useful

32) How to bring organizations together

33) How did it happen? Investments

34) Macro costs and benefits analysis – understand long-term trade-offs

35) Dam removal

36) Cost recovery of dam removal